WILLIAMSBURG, PA., November 19—Cox Bros & Co's No. 2 [illegible] breaker near Harelton was burned to the ground this morning. Loss $75,000, insurance $30,000. Also the breaker No. 1 going to the new Buck Mountain Coal Co. Loss $60,000, partly insured. The burning of the two breakers caused considerable excitement, and rumors were current that they had been set on fire by miners. There were also rumors that aid had been sent to the governor for troops to protect the mine property. No application, however, has been sent to the governor and it is believed here and throughout the mining district that the miners have had nothing whatever to do with the burning of the breakers.

Guatemalan Affairs.

NEW YORK, November 19.—Private letters from Guatemala bring the following intelligence: Archbishop Ratzel has gone to the United States. The government of Guatemala forced him to leave the republic. The charges against him were insubordination and a tendency to interfere in temporal concerns. The old cabinet of President Barrios has been reelected. Mr Horner of London, after months of diplomacy, has obtained formal recognition of the great debt due English bondholders and has brought about a settlement.

Exterminating Bandits.

GALVESTON, November 19.—A special to the News from Austin says: Information received here in official quarters shows that the bandits infesting the Rio Grande are being hotly pursued and are hard pressed by the Texas rangers and the Mexican authorities acting in conjunction. The most noted criminals of the gang have been killed or captured and the remaining outlaws scattered. The friendly co-operation of the Mexican and Texas authorities for the suppression of this outlawry gives promise of a better state of affairs along the Rio Grande frontier than has existed for years.

An Alibi for Arendorf.

MILWAUKEE, November 19.—The rest of the Juneau club of this city says he can prove an alibi for John Arendorf, now on trial at Sioux City, Ia., for the murder of Geo C Haddock. He says he was cook in the Shepard restaurant in Sioux City at the time of the murder, and on the night of the tragedy he served Arendorf and some companions with supper. He says when the fatal shot was fired Arendorf was throwing dice for drinks at the bar of the restaurant.

Steamships Quarantined.

NEW YORK, November 19.—The steamer Syria from Rio Janeiro, arrived at this port to-day and was detained at quarantine on account of small pox. She has only seven passengers. A child died from the disease on the 11th inst and was buried at sea.

The steamer Waesland, from Antwerp was also detained at quarantine as she carried several passengers who came from the cholera district.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

PRESCOTT, ARIZ., November 19.—The boiler in W. Z. Wilson & Co's saw mill nine miles from here, exploded this morning killing W. Z. Wilson, one of the proprietors, Timothy Cowley, engineer, J. B. Ackerle, fireman, and three workmen. A number of other employees were severely injured. Wilson's body was torn to pieces.

Counterfeiter Arrested.

DENVER, November 19.—George Addy, who for several years has acted in the capacity of general passenger and ticket agent of the Union Pacific for Colorado, was to-day appointed general passenger and ticket agent for the Santa Fe road for this state.

Export Duties Abolished.

DENVER, November 19.—Advices from Buenos Ayres state that all export duties imposed by the Argentine Republic will be abolished on January 1, 1888.

CRISIS IN FRANCE.

The French Government Defeated in the Chamber.

Three Resignations Accepted by President Grevy.

Russo-German Tension Unchanged by the Czar's Visit.

Prince William Regarded as Heir to the German Throne.

Ministerial Crisis.

PARIS, November 19.—Rouvier upon leaving the house of deputies was surrounded by a crowd and said: "I have tendered the resignation of the cabinet to President Grevy and he has sent for me to form a ministry."

On leaving the house, Rouvier was followed by a crowd to the office of the council of ministers. Upon reaching the office Rouvier was met by President Grevy who sent for Floquet to form a ministry.

Floquet, who was accompanied by Constans and Fallieres, was received by President Grevy immediately upon their arrival at the Elysee palace.

PARIS, November 19.—President Grevy held a consultation with De Freycinet, Constans and other prominent statesmen. He said he desired the formation of a ministry which would endeavor to organize a union of the whole party with a view of so establishing it that its power would be unassailable in the chamber.

Germany and Russia.

BERLIN, November 19.—Public and official hatred in Russia against the Germans is so intense that even the autocrat must go softly in modifying his policy unless the czar inaugurates a marked change. The existing strained relations will result ere long in an open rupture.

The Cologne Gazette concludes a bitter anti Russian article as follows: "The Russians may rest assured that no further attempt will be made to draw Russia to Germany's side. The policy of Germany will henceforth be devoted to strengthening her relations with the powers upon whom she can rely with certainty."

The North German Gazette to-night denies that Prince Bismarck regards the dismissal of Finance Minister Vishnigradsky and the partisans of the revanche movement as indispensable conditions of the renewal of friendly relations. The paper denies also that the international arrangements of Russia can ever become subject to an understanding between Russia and Germany or Austria but these denials are taken as designed to smooth Russian jealousies, which are certain to be aroused to a furious pitch if the people become convinced that the czar has reformed the government in consequence of the prompting of Prince Bismarck.

The important announcement is made to-night that owing to the illness of the crown prince, Prince William will by command of the emperor represent his father at all future state ceremonies and receptions. Prince Bismarck since his arrival has held daily conferences with Prince William, who visited the chancellor within an hour of his reaching Berlin on Tuesday night. The speech from the throne at the opening of the reichstag on Thursday will definitely allude to the position of Prince William. The official circle is especially gratified by the prince's recognition and all Germany approves a step which will further consolidate the position of Bismarck as leader of German destinies. Prince William does not swerve from his patriotism for Prince Bismarck. He is devoted to the chancellor's theories of government and will implicitly submit to his guidance.

The question of temperance is attracting a great deal of attention all over the world. A few years ago an international temperance conference was held in Switzerland. The international character of the conference was shown by the widely diverging opinions. In this country, a temperance conference would hardly consider such a thing as a high license law, but in this conference one delegate from Switzerland spoke of the benefits of the law recently adopted by the Swiss people, by which the government buys and sells the liquor. Another paper, which would be somewhat startling in an American conference, was by Mr. Thomann, a representative of a brewers association in the United States, who advocated high license as the best method of temperance reform. There were also many papers read in the conference representing the views of temperance reformers in this country. The temperance people have got, so far in their plans to stop the evils of intemperance in this country, that what is considered temperance reform in some countries in Europe, represents the position of the Brewers association in this country as well as the prohibitionists. Another phase of this conference that was interesting was the active participation of women in its deliberations. Several papers were read by them, and Miss Marwedell, who represented the Woman's Christian Temperance union, was a very eloquent and acceptable speaker. One gentleman remarked that it was the first time that women had taken part in any conference in Dallas, and generally added that he hoped it would not be the last. Whatever differences of opinion there was about side-issues in this conference, there was a general sentiment that there were great evils connected with the use of liquor, and something should be done to abate these evils.

It seems to have Anglomania on the brain. The Denver Republican thinks it was snobbish to call an Englishman to the Plymouth pulpit, but it ought to be assumed that the congregation to which Mr. Talmage preached for forty years is not acting from such a reason. The fact is that there are too few great preachers in the American clergy to fill large fields. This is shown by the fact that the most important pulpits in New York are filled by Englishmen, Scotchmen and Irishmen, like Dr. John Hall, Dr. Taylor, Dr. Chambers and the Rev. Mr. Rainsford. Those who know Dr. John Hall or Dr. Taylor would not say that they are chosen from any affectation for them. They are both very great church preachers, whose power lies in the good lives that they live. It is difficult to find an explanation for the lack of a sufficient number of good preachers among American clergymen, though it is undeniable that such is the case. During the early history of this country the pulpit was a great power, not only in the teaching of religious truth, but in its influence on civil affairs. It originated our common school system, and gave it its best. It was also influential in forming opinions on all political questions which had any moral quality attaching to them. Consequently the brightest minds in this country entered the ministry, because they found there the largest field for influence and usefulness. But during the latter half of this century at least, this is changed. The influence of the pulpit has been lessened, and its field of usefulness has been narrowed. The Emersons, the Buckinghams, the Channings, the Parkers, the Chapins, the Thompsons and the Beechers are not well represented in the pulpits of to-day. The popular preachers are sensationalists, like Talmage, and are not formers of public opinion. The ministry of to-day may not be behind the ministry of the early part of this century in scholarship or in spiritual life but it is behind them as formers of public opinion. While confining himself strictly to his ministerial duties as we understand them to-day, Phillips Brooks, in his influence over intelligent [illegible] so far as his influence goes, of the other preachers. There are too few of this class. Two ministers in our early history had their influence because the truths that they preached were generally accepted by the communities in which they lived. The teaching of the ministers of to-day is not accepted without question by the communities in which they live. The hearers have changed a good deal but the preachers have not changed enough in their methods in presenting religious truth. The preachers who are successful to-day are those who are eminent as Christians and those who by severe emphasis on enforcing those practical truths which affect the lives, and whose preaching is not censored by great congregations. As Phillips Brooks has put it they are men who recognize disobedience to the Son of Man more than heresy. The foreigners who have been invited to take American pulpits are men whose preaching lies rather on the practical affairs of life than on creeds. This is the kind of preaching, not sensational, that is now popular, and this rather than real holiness will rather explain the reason why so many foreign born ministers have been invited to fill American pulpits.

LITERARY NOTES.

Edwin Arnold's poem, "The Light of Asia," and also, with illustrations, by Sir Monier Williams, is published by Roberts Brothers, Boston.

"A Quick Recovery," by Mrs. Alexander, is published by Lippincott's Company, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Whitney has a story in the December number of Hard Times entitled "Real Folks," which is a sequel to "The Other Girls." The illustrations in this story are by Miss Hallowell.

Arthur W. Tolmin has written for the Century a short story of mystery, entitled "The Recommencement of Cyrus."

A friend [illegible] is the latest of Miss Murfree's new published stories. It is described by Miss Murfree herself in a letter written to her own publishers, Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., as "a novel of the mountains of East Tennessee, which will be published in the autumn of 1888. The scene is laid in the Cumberland mountains, and the characters are all mountaineers."

Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, Dean of Westminster, has presented Amherst College, Massachusetts, with the manuscript of his lectures on Jewish Church History, delivered by him in Amherst College in 1878. The manuscript will be published by Messrs. Scribner & Co. The Dean was a graduate of Amherst College and was a frequent visitor to the institution and Scribner's Monthly, which was published in Amherst, was the first magazine to which he contributed. The Dean was also a frequent contributor to the Atlantic Monthly and the Cornhill Magazine, and was the first editor of the Macmillan's Magazine.

Mrs. F. H. Burnett's new story will be the contribution to the Christmas number of St. Nicholas. It is called Sara Crewe, and it is the story of a little girl who goes to a boarding school in London. The illustrations of St. Nicholas will be from drawings by Miss Gaskin, H. H. Bogert, Frank T. Merrill, Reginald Birch and J. T. Trowbridge, and will be engraved by the well-known firm of Messrs. Linton, Hamilton & Baker, of St. Louis and New York.

The last volume of Scott Lectures contains a contribution to the Christmas Scribner's, the first which he has ever published. "Tennyson's Idyls of the King," illustrated with photographs from A. Weston's photographs of Mr. Tennyson's models, by E. H. Blashfield, is the subject. Over 8,000 copies of the Christmas Scribner's were printed.

I [illegible] with some embarrassment I took the platform and was [illegible] ovation!

Again last summer a few days before my great show was to visit St. Albans, Vt., I received a letter signed by the clergy of that town including [illegible] my organization was to arrive among them on Sunday morning early, and ask that I would give orders that none of the paraphernalia, wagons, etc., should be on the road between the railroad depot and the show ground during the hours of divine service. I was puzzled how to word [illegible] that their very reasonable request was respected. Being in St. Albans, my self that Sunday I received, with my company, printed invitations to attend a prominent church. I, at least went, and heard a very good sermon and the preacher did not take the occasion to decry the calling I represented, as happened to Miss Fanny Abbott recently.

SPEAKING IN CHURCH.

I will not say whether I think it was well or ill advised of her to rise in meeting and combat the [illegible] strictures of the preacher, but I did the same thing myself (after the benediction was pronounced) [illegible] provocation in Lenox, Mass., fifty one years ago and had a attentive and sympathetic audience, as I doubt not Miss Abbott did. Many such men as Henry Ward Beecher, Dr. Chapin and Dr. Cuyler have written me most cordial expressions of their appreciation of my circus and their personal pleasure in attending it. Perhaps my experience has been exceptionally fortunate, and I am convinced that the church and my circus at least are to stay on fairly good terms.

The reports of county superintendents [illegible] Campbell of public instruction are all in except from Gunnison and Garfield. The school population of the whole state is 67,014. With the exception of the two missing returns the figures are as follows:

The total number of pupils enrolled is [illegible]34. The average attendance [illegible]226. The number of teachers is 1,162 of whom 487 are in graded schools, 661 in ungraded, 269 male and 966 female. The compensation which is exchanged for the capability of teaching the centennial state's youngsters averages $108 46 monthly for males in graded schools and 73 47 for the pretty "ma'ms" in the same schools. In ungraded schools the rate is not so great a discrepancy, the men obtaining an average of $50 81 and the women $44 56.

Of school-houses in the state there are 671, and the valuation of the same structures with their surroundings reaches the very pretty figure of $2,446,501.

Arapahoe county, of a necessity, leads the state in this line with a school population of 13,445, and a total enrollment of 10,607. The very excellent showing of average daily attendance of 7,057 is made. In the high school there are 481 pupils, in the graded schools 2117, and in the country schools 1,060, while 451 are in attendance at private schools. There are 181 teachers in the graded schools and twenty nine in the ungraded. Of these thirty two are male and 178 female. The average salaries of the graded school teachers are $132 and $74 respectively for the sexes, and in the country they draw $55 and $52.

Arapahoe county's school houses number 174, with a valuation of $1 140,000 or about half that of the state.

Friday's issue of the Pueblo Evening Star says: "This morning the sheriff of El Paso county took Thomas Casey to Colorado Springs to appear before the district court of El Paso county. Casey has been in jail here two days and was arrested on information sworn to by Joseph Wade to one of the south side policemen. Some weeks ago Casey in company with Wade went to Monument where they got their skins full of lime juice, and on their return Casey conceived the brilliant idea that it would be a good joke to rob his friend and companion and accordingly proceeded to [illegible] Wade, taking from his pocket $8 in cash, his tobacco, keys and hat. Leaving Wade unconscious Casey then departed and came to Pueblo, where he was apprehended day before yesterday. On his arrival here some two weeks ago he was arrested and put on the chain gang where he served his time. He is evidently a tough case and will probably serve a term at Canon. Sheriff Anderson kindly gave the poor Wade money enough to go to Colorado Springs in order to appear before the grand jury which is now in session at that place. A true bill was found and the sheriff of El Paso came and got his man who is now in durance vile."

A NOTABLE EVENT.

A Hearty Reception Tendered Mr. and Mrs. Sellers at the Alamo Hotel Last Evening.

[illegible] of the pleasant social events of the season occurred last evening at the Alamo hotel, when Mr. John M. Sellers and his bride of Aurora, Ill., were tendered a reception by the employees of the hotel, of which Mr. Sellers is the popular manager. The reception was tendered by a number of Mr. Sellers friends in Colorado Springs, and was a complete surprise to the [illegible] was [illegible] by invitation to the dining room where an elegant collation was served by the Alamo chefs. The tables were laden with the delicacies of the season, and were adorned with large floral designs. When the repast was finished and before the guests left the room Captain Seth Baker who performed the duties of toastmaster, called on a number of gentlemen for brief remarks. The following gentlemen responded in a humorous and happy vein: Mr. J. M. Bolton, Mr. R. C. McCreery and Captain Brewster. Miss Minnie Brewster also delighted the company with a humorous recitation the rendering of which fully sustained her reputation as an elocutionist. After several more selections by the band the company departed to their several homes after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Sellers a bright and prosperous future.

Sayings of the Little Ones.

A little motherless girl of five summers who was left in my care four years in New Orleans, some [illegible] sudden morning boss over her doll's wardrobe which I suppose had been by saying: "I fly, God is not pleased while you play with your doll to day." She looked seriously into my face and said: "Mrs. Rose, God has nothing to do with me. Jesus takes care of little children."

A small boy, also in my care, was found one Sunday playing steamboat with his blocks, etc. It was in Madison prior to the advent of horse cars. I [illegible] and his reply was in part as follows:

"Don't God keep on all up there to kiss off to-day?"

A little girl, while in the public garden Sunday with her mother began to pluck up the grass and was instantly restrained, to her chagrin. "Why can't I run on the grass, mamma?" she wailed out. "Because the policemen will make you go off if you do." "Don't see the policeman over there." Besides, it is Sunday and God doesn't want you to play." "O dear," said the little girl, "if it wasn't for the policemans and God what nice times we could have!"—Detroit Transcript.

A few mornings since at breakfast in a certain Clifton home, a little six pair-sized boy manifested great perplexity by exclaiming: "Mamma, I love you better than I love oatmeal." "Do you love that much?" was the tender response. "Well, I don't know, only it's—it's—it's—Cincinnati Telegram.

Little Rosalind (3 years old)—Mamma, where has Uncle Jess gone? Mamma—Out on a ranch, dear; he's gone to be a cowboy. Rosalind (after a pause tearfully)—O mamma, will he have horns?—Harper's Bazar.

Little Neil—Mamma, are I [illegible] bad boy, [illegible]? Mamma—You careless child, how did it happen? She broke her head her own self; she tumbled off the chair. "Now, Little Nell, don't you [illegible] off chairs [illegible]." "Why, yes they can mamma, [illegible] off as easy enough. It's holding on they can't do."—Omaha World.

The subject of humane greatness was touched upon in a St. Paul Sunday school class, and the teacher aptly illustrated by referring to the president. Then she made the application. "Now, children, great as the president is, wise, and all that as much as he is loved and honored there is one who is loved and honored more than he—one who is greater than the president of the great country. Do you know who that is?" The teacher paused solemnly for an answer. And she got it. Not from one or two or three of the class, but in concert, and instantaneously every little [illegible] shouted out: "Mrs. Cleveland."

Said Mrs. Smith who had come to spend the day, to little Edith: "Are you glad to see me again, Edith?" Edith—"Yes, ma'am, and mamma's glad, too." Mrs. Smith—"Is she?" Edith—"Yes m'm, she said she hoped you'd come today and have it over with." Mamma blushes scarlet, but Mrs. Smith simply smiles.—[Boston Transcript.

Charlie, aged 8, brought home a slinking yellow pup, bow-legged, drooping-tailed, and shame-faced. He cared for it tenderly, fixed a dry goods box in the back yard for a kennel, and on every possible occasion exhibited the animal proudly. His sister, Ella, aged 18, [illegible]

Notice the change in the "Hub" advertisement this morning.

Mr. Rael B. Simpson, of Monument, was in the city yesterday.

The police magistrate fined a man $2 and costs yesterday for drunkenness.

Gilbert, Donnelly and Girard in Natural Gas at the opera house to-morrow evening.

Mr. Clarence Fleming, business manager of the Rosina Vokes Comedy company, made the GAZETTE office a pleasant call last evening.

The next of the series of "musicales" given by the Amateur Musical society will be held in the college chapel to-morrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The board of managers of the Woman's Exchange are requested to meet at the rooms of the association on Huerfano street to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

Invitations have been issued for the dedicatory ball given by Troop A, Colorado National guard, at their new armory on the evening of Thanksgiving day.

Rev. D. Bolk, pastor of the Corona M. E. church South, of Pueblo, will preach this morning in the First Methodist church. In the evening there will be a missionary concert.

Mr. Libbey, late of Tiffany's, but who is now with D. Ashby, has recently made a very fine solitaire diamond ring for Mr. Conrad Rian, the violinist, which is a credit to his skill as a workman.

Quite an excitement of gamblers took place from Colorado City a few evenings ago, when it was learned that the grand jury had returned indictments against some of the gambling house keepers.

All those desiring to secure a good fat turkey for a Thanksgiving dinner should attend the turkey shoot next Wednesday on the grounds west of the Monument. There will be plenty of turkeys on hand and nine shots to constitute a [illegible]

A prize field took place on Friday afternoon in Douglass county, at a point on the Denver & Texas & Ft. Worth railroad, near the Arapahoe county line. The principals were J. A. Hewitt, champion heavy weight pugilist of Canada, and Dave Walker, who formerly resided in this city. The fight was of very short duration, the latter being knocked out in the second round.

The case of the district court was resumed yesterday in the trial of the case of Lafe Poole vs. Grant Mumford. Knott, who was indicted for assault and battery. The prosecuting witness was a man by the name of Pope who had some difficulty with Knott regarding a tie contract, of the latter's completion at Stevens Park a few months ago. The difficulty resulted in Knott assaulting Pope, for which he was found guilty by a jury of the Court of Sessions at Stevens Park. After hearing the evidence [illegible] dict of guilty.

Public worship in the Central Congregational church [illegible] Acacia park, at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. [illegible] Gregg, morning and evening. In the evening will be given the fifth in the series of sermons to young men on such decisive choices of life. Subject this evening: "The Career of Absolute Integrity and Its Opposites." Sunday school at 12.15 p. m. and prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30.

Mr. Claude Craig, who went to Denver to finish a very fine [illegible] panorama painting a view of Pike's Peak and the mountain range from a point on the Midland line, Manitou Park, Ute Pass, etc., has returned to the city. The painting is one of the best that has come under our observation. It is [illegible] feet wide by [illegible] feet high, and will be on exhibition in the Cliff House parlors. Mr. Craig has spent a great amount of work upon this picture and they will compare favorably with his best paintings.

The rooms of the Woman's Exchange, No. 121 Huerfano street, will be open on Monday morning to receive any articles for sale which charitably disposed people may feel inclined to make toward their furnishing, and to make arrangements with consignors. There is so much needed to fit up the rooms and there are many people in town who have more furniture than they can use. A little of this abundance might easily be spared to such a worthy object which we hope will be on such a footing as to need no further assistance. It is the intention of the managers to open the rooms at the exchange on Thanksgiving day, of which further notice will be given.

A dispatch to the GAZETTE last evening signed by Mr. Horace Bird, conveyed the sad information of the death of Mr. B. S. Fitch, traffic manager of the Colorado Midland railway. His death occurred in Denver last evening at 9.50 o'clock. His illness was of very short duration and the news of his death will be a painful shock to his friends in this city. Mr. Fitch was a gentleman who was very highly respected by all with whom he came in contact either in a social or business way. He was particularly qualified for his position by many years of fruitful experience. His death will be a serious loss to the Midland, and his place will be a difficult one for the company to fill.

We publish this morning an advertisement of an amateur theatrical entertainment to be given at the Cliff House on Wednesday evening next at eight o'clock for the benefit of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. A number of young people of considerable dramatic talent have arranged to give the two very laughable farces by W. D. Howells, called "The Sleeping Car," and "Mouse Trap." The latter play has proved the most popular of new plays for amateur actors. Some of our readers may have read this play when it was published in Harper's about a year ago. It is full of amusing situations, and can be presented in an effective way without any elaborate stage preparations. We hope that Colorado Springs will be well represented at this entertainment.

The Denver Afternoon of last Tuesday said: "Natural Gas" made an impression at the Tabor Grand last evening and no performance can be held in many a long day has given any better satisfaction. It is not only immensely funny, but it is in the hands of a cast that would make anything a go. Here it is: Kitty Malone, Miss Amy Ames; Lopez, Miss Rachel Booth; Daisy, Miss Katherine Bidwell; Howe, Flossie Moss; Kate Allen, Tilla Moss; Jessie Oyler, Ginger Whitman; Jap, T. Craven; Johnson, Doodle Gus Hornsey; Whirl, G. Rouse; Ellie Gould, Christopher Duff, Henry V. Donnelly, No. 8, Harold John D. Gilbert. The piece is the work of H. Grattan Donnelly, and he boldly announces that no one who reads any literary merit in his work will be prosecuted. All of the local and popular hits of the day are introduced and well made. There is not a member of the cast that does not have a special notice, which we have, of the space to give to-day, but will do so later. All of the ladies are pretty and good voiced, and dress well.

The Denver Republican says: "Rev. Dr. Fitch preached at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. During the forenoon session reports were received from the remaining pastoral charges of the fourteen in the district. Most of these reports were [illegible] Rev. F. B. Arnold, D. D., presiding elder, gave a very interesting and impressive general talk on the condition of the district, as it was found by him on his visitations. At 11 o'clock, Rev. H. A. Buttz, D. D., LL. D., president of the conference, delivered a characteristic and able sermon. The afternoon session of the conference was spent in the examination of character, location of preachers, etc. The following delegates to the next general conference, which meets at Omaha, May 1, 1888, were elected: Rev. F. Bird, D. D., Rev. H. A. Buttz, D. D., LL. D., Rev. J. Fletcher Hurst, D. D., Rev. J. M. Reid, D. D., Rev. C. H. Fowler, D. D., Rev. J. M. Walden, D. D., Rev. J. H. Vincent, D. D., Rev. J. F.
